Book Reviews

Instructions for Reviewers

Reviews should be a maximum of 2000 words in length. Try for more like 1500 words; brevity is a virtue.

Reviews should be completed and sent to the book review editor within 6 months of receipt of the book. Failure to submit the review in a timely fashion may result in a request for return of the book or rejection of the review for publication.

Reviews should start off with, in the following order: title, author, publisher, publisher location, number of pages, ISBN, whether paperback or hardcover, cost and date. If both paperback and hardcover versions are available, indicate ISBN and cost for both. If you are missing any of this information, please check the publisher's website or, failing that, notify the book review editor. Please examine recent CJA issues for examples. The following examples are meant to illustrate punctuation, capitalization, bolding and overall format.

Prehistoric Native Americans and Ecological Change: Human Ecosystems in Eastern North America Since the Pleistocene

by Paul A. Delcourt and Hazel R. Delcourt. Cambridge University Press, Cambridge. 203 pp. ISBN 0-521-6627-2 (hardcover) US$121.95. 2004.

Emerging From the Mist: Studies in Northwest Coast Culture History

edited by R.G. Matson, Gary Coupland, and Quentin Mackie. UBC Press, Vancouver. xii+336 pp. ISBN 0-7748-0981-7 (hardcover) $95. ISBN 0-7748-0982-5 (paperback) $49.95. 2003.

For general format, please consult reviews in recent issues of the journal. A CJA style guide (for articles, but some information is applicable to reviews) is available in the CJA section of the CAA website.

A "References Cited" section is acceptable, provided it is short. Avoid extensive citations in reviews. Please consult recently published book reviews for appropriate format. If included, this should follow directly after the text of the review.

The reviewer's name and professional affiliation should be placed last. As examples:

George C. Shovel
Northern Pines Consulting
Edmonton, Alberta

or

John L. Smith
Department of Anthropology
University of Nunavut

All reviews should be in MS-Word format, and can be submitted directly to the book review editor (at bookrevieweditor@canadianarchaeology.com) by email attachment.
